Questions 31-33

Rabbits in stories and cartoons are cute and fast. They eat only carrots and don't even need water. Though they can be cute and fast in real life, rabbits don't eat carrots alone. Like many other animals, they drink their mother's milk as babies. As adults, rabbits eat all kinds of vegetables and plants. In addition, rabbits can't speak like they do in many stories. However, they do make noises. They can rub their teeth together, which sounds like a cat's purr. This means the rabbit is happy. If they are angry, rabbits might grunt at you. When scared or in pain, they can scream.

31. What is the purpose of this passage?
- To introduce some famous rabbits from stories and cartoons
 - To show that real rabbits are different from story rabbits
 - To compare rabbits and cats
 - To convince the reader that rabbits make good pets
32. Which of the following statements about rabbits is not true?
- They are thought of as cute and fast.
 - In many stories, they can speak.
 - In reality, they only eat carrots.
 - Their noises tell you how they're feeling.
33. What do rabbits do when they are angry?
- They rub their teeth together.
 - They make short, low sounds.
 - They make a sharp, high noise.
 - They run away quickly.

Questions 34-36

Many parents complain that video games make their children lazy and inactive. However, Wii Fit is trying to change that. Wii Fit is an exercise game that uses a platform called a balance board. Users can enjoy a variety of activities, including yoga, balance games, and sports competitions. They are able to gain fit credits, which they can save in their Fit Bank. This keeps track of time spent on Wii Fit. When a player reaches a certain stage, new activities are unlocked, such as new yoga moves. The moves get more challenging as the game is played longer. If you want excitement and fun while you get in shape, give Wii Fit a try.

34. What does the writer feel about Wii Fit?
- It is a waste of time for children.
 - It is too complicated for children.
 - It is worth trying for some people.
 - It does not have enough activities.
35. What happens the longer you play Wii Fit?
- You can meet new players.
 - You get a chance to win a free game.
 - You get longer breaks.
 - You get to try new activities.
36. Which of the following is not true about Wii Fit?
- It is interesting and exciting to play.
 - It gets players to exercise.
 - It makes players inactive.
 - It has more than one activity.

Questions 37-40

Parents looking for a way to bond with their kids might want to follow the example of Brian Albright and his 12-year-old son Ken. When Ken isn't busy playing soccer, doing his homework or finishing his chores, he and his dad share some time playing video games. Some parents would probably see this as a waste of time. In fact, according to a recent poll, 4 in 10 parents never play video games with their kids. However, video games might be a way to bridge the generation gap.

As long as limits are set, such as how much time can be spent per week playing video games, this can actually be a great way for parents and kids to spend time together. For Ken and his dad, playing video games has led to father-son talks about real topics such as war, politics and the military. Other parents who play video games with their kids say that it has brought them closer and has also helped them teach their children important life lessons. Video games won't be going away anytime soon, so it's up to parents to find a way to use them to their advantage.

37. What is the overall message of this passage?
- A. Children should never be allowed to play video games.
 - B. Adults should not play video games with their children.
 - C. Playing video games with kids can be useful for parents.
 - D. Video games will soon be out of date and no longer popular.
38. According to the passage, which of the following statement is not true?
- A. Most parents often play video games with their kids.
 - B. Video games can serve as a bridge to connect parents with their kids.
 - C. Parents and kids who play video games together can become closer.
 - D. Rules should be set if parents are going to play video games with their kids.
39. What can be an appropriate title for this passage?
- A. The Future of Video Games
 - B. Video Games: A New Way to Bond
 - C. Video Games in Education
 - D. Irresponsible Parents Playing Video Games
40. What is true of Ken and his father?
- A. Video games have led them to exchange ideas on real topics.
 - B. Video games have become a source of tension between them.
 - C. Ken's dad refuses to set rules about how long he can play video games.
 - D. Ken does not enjoy playing video games with his father at all.
