Questions 30-32

Value of an Education

Over dinner last night, my father asked me if I had decided what I wanted to study in university. I told him that I wasn't sure. Then, after a few minutes, I added: "I guess I don't really care either. I just want to study something that will help me earn a lot of money after I graduate."

My father looked over at me and I could tell he was not happy. "If you want to make a lot of money, I suggest you quit school right now and work hard. I don't want you to waste another minute in school."

"What are you talking about?" I asked. My father was an educated man. He always seemed to value a good education.

"Go to university to learn something. Don't miss the opportunity," he said. "Remember that most people in the world don't have this kind of chance."

30. When they were eating, what did the speaker's father ask him?

- A. What kind of job he wanted.
- B. If he had some money.
- C. What he wanted to major in.
- D. Where the university was.

31. Why did the writer's father look unhappy?

- A. The writer said that he didn't plan to go to university.
- B. The writer said that he didn't care about making money.
- C. The writer said something very impolite.
- D. The writer said he only cared about how much money he would earn.

32. A lot of people in the world don't have the chance _____

- A. to talk to their fathers often.
- B. to go to university.
- C. to make a lot of money.
- D. to work in the bank.

Questions 33-35

History Lesson

A long time ago, Alexander the Great conquered the city of Corinth. The people of Corinth were overjoyed because everyone hated the previous king. Alexander was also happy because Periander, an intelligent philosopher, lived in Corinth.

"Have you seen Periander?" he asked the city's people. "I would like to meet him." It was reported that he had been seen at the beach. Thus Alexander and all of his men marched down to meet him. Sure enough, there was Periander, resting under the sun. "I will grant you any wish you desire," said Alexander when he saw Periander.

"Will you?" asked Periander without looking up. "Then please leave. You're blocking the sun."

Alexander's men were surprised. But Alexander simply smiled and said: "If I weren't Alexander, I would want to be Periander. He understands what freedom is."

33. Why were the people of Corinth happy to see Alexander the Great?

- A. Everybody knew that he liked intelligent people.
- B. He had an army that was very strong.
- C. The people were tired of the old king.
- D. They were happy that he could meet Periander.

34. Where was the man that Alexander wanted to meet?

- A. He was waiting in the city.
- B. He was down at the beach.
- C. He was running away.
- D. He was killed in the fighting.

Questions 37—40

Many people are concerned about the environment and ensuring that we have enough safe energy sources for the future. One way to ensure that we have energy in the future is to reduce the amount we use today. In Canada, many hydro companies have programs to help consumers reduce the waste of energy on unnecessary electrical appliances. One of those plans is a refrigerator buy-back. Refrigerators are one of the highest energy users in your home. The company often offers a nominal amount for the old appliance or a discount on future hydro expenses as long as the fridge is in working condition. The service includes pick up and transportation to a recycling depot. Using environmentally sound methods, the company safely recycles the ozone-depleting refrigerant and metal. The hope is that by lowering energy consumption, the company and the consumers will delay the need for new energy generating facilities.

37. How does the author feel about refrigeration buy-back programs?

- A. The author thinks they are a waste of time.
- B. The author feels the amount of money offered for the old appliance is too little.
- C. The author feels that most people won't use the program because they don't care about the environment.
- D. The author feels that the programs are a good way to reduce energy consumption.

38. What services are included in the refrigerator buy-back program?

- A. The company removes the refrigerant for the owner.
- B. The company picks up the old appliance and offers a small amount of money or a discount to the owner.
- C. The company will build a new facility to house the old appliances.
- D. The company repairs the old fridge so that it is in good working order and doesn't waste as much energy.

39. What is implied about old refrigerators?

- A. They needlessly use up energy.
- B. They are useful.
- C. They take up too much space.
- D. They contain dangerous gases and metals.

40. What does the word "consumption" mean in this passage?

- A. eating
- B. purchasing
- C. using
- D. wasting
